Report:

- (+) Good form on shot/solid three-point shooter
- (+) Quick release on shot
- (+) Good defensive position
- (+) Willing to sacrifice body on loose balls
- (+) Doesn't fear competing with bigger players
- (+) Always moving and looking for position on 3-point line
- (+) Alertness on D – 5 steals
- (-) Couldn't beat sub-par defender (C. Barry) on the bounce
- (-) Found trouble getting past shot-blocker
- (-) Gets caught ball watching on defense

Summary:

Vasturia played above his abilities in this tournament. He truly is a three-point shooter, but he gave every effort he had on defense. His ability to track down the ball and compete with larger, more physical defenders was impressive. In addition, he did not think twice about sacrificing his body diving for loose balls. I imagine his toughness was a question before this tournament, but he certainly showed that he wants to compete at the next level. His offensive game is mainly limited to three-pointers, catch and shoot jumpers, and the occasional floater. He does not really create for others and seems to play around contact and being fouled, though his free throw percentage is outstanding. His defensive positioning is intelligent and his basketball IQ and effort are, combined with his three-point shooting, going to be his trademarks going forward.
